

back by guards. He heard shots from the direction of the Bertelmann place.

All endeavors to get Diamond Head were of no avail. Nothing had been heard from there since 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

At 10 o'clock reports were received of the capture of three men in the Bertelmann house. About this time the Cabinet left the Police Station and went to the Executive Building, after which it was reported that martial law was to be declared at midnight.

At 10:45 seven natives were brought to the station having been captured while going toward Sans Souci. They were David Kealoha, John C. Lane, Kaniko, Kiba, Hikiau, Bipi and Peter Kalo. These men were not armed. As the night advanced continued reports of advantages gained by Government troops were sent in to the police station. Lieutenant King and thirty-two regulars went to the Bertelmann place and by 11 o'clock were in full possession of the premises and had taken six prisoners.

ENCOUNTER AT WAIKIKI.

How Mr. Carter Was Shot and Prisoners Taken.

Mr. James Castle, after being relieved by Lieutenant King and the regulars, went to the police station, and later reported for duty with the sharpshooters at the Government building. The most authentic account of the encounter at Waikiki obtainable at 1 o'clock this morning is to the effect that Mr. Castle and Messrs. Charles and Alfred Carter were attracted to Bertelmann's house by the first shots exchanged with Parker's posse. Captain Parker entered Bertelmann's house and announced that he had a warrant to search the premises. Bertelmann was in his sitting-room. Mr. Castle and Mr. Carter stood by the steps of the house, with the light from the room shining full upon them.

The officers went around the house to an old canoe-house in the rear. Here the natives, fully armed, were discovered. Not thinking of those exposed in the light the officers jumped into the fray.

The natives on being discovered opened fire. One Jim Lane is said to have put his revolver to Captain Parker's head. A policeman struck Lane's hand and the bullet missed its mark. Lane was then seen to fire upon Charles Carter who was shot through the breast and in the leg.

Policeman Logan was shot three times in the right arm and Officer Holi was wounded in the shoulder. Mr. Carter was removed to his house. His wounds, though painful, are not considered dangerous. The other men were taken to the hospital.

After this first volley, the natives tried to escape. James Lane and two others in the canoe-house were captured; also Bertelmann and his servant. While Mr. Castle, Mr. Alfred Carter and Deputy-Marshal Brown took possession of the Bertelmann premises, Captain Parker and his officers followed the retreating men.

Officers from the Station and the regulars from the barracks soon arrived and relieved those who were "holding the fort" and took the prisoners to the station.

No arms were found on Bertelmann though one of the officers claims he was using a rifle handily at the first fusillade.

A heavy Colt's revolver was taken from James Lane. Three chambers were empty which goes to show that he was the one who made an attempt on Mr. Carter's life.

Two prayer books were the only things Bertelmann and his servant had in their possession on their arrival at the station.

Captain Parker and a few of his men pushed on after the fleeing natives, either side exchanging shots as they ran through the wooded land. It is thought that some may be killed or wounded. A rifle, a coat and a hat were brought in from the district beyond Bertelmann's.

About midnight the firing ceased and it was generally expected that Captain Parker would soon return.

Up to 2 o'clock this morning nothing had been heard of him or his men. At 1 o'clock a searching party was sent out but could find nothing. There is no little fear for their safety. The whole posse may have been taken prisoners or they may have been killed in going through the woods.

Later reports from Mr. Carter state that he is in a serious condition, having been shot in the stomach, and the doctors are unable to find the ball. He is in intense pain. Three doctors are in attendance.

Attorney-General Smith stated last night that the Government was in complete possession of the situation.

It had not been thought best to declare martial law at present. The Cabinet will have a meeting at 8 o'clock this morning.

LATER.—At 3:15 this morning a messenger arrived at the police station and reported heavy firing at Moiliili. A detachment of police were immediately despatched to the scene of firing.

At 4 o'clock a native named Abolo was brought to the station from Moiliili. When searched in presence of Marshal Hitchcock his pockets were loaded with cartridges. In answer to questions he said he was from Moanalua, and that Sam Nowlin was at the head of the uprising.

At 4:30 there were no tidings from Captain Parker. A searching party will be despatched at day-break.

NOTES OF THE FRAY.

It did not take long for the members of the military companies and the Citizens' Guard to get to their stations last evening. The news of the threatened trouble flew with great rapidity, and from 7:30 to 10 o'clock men carrying rifles were coming and going in all directions.

A patrol was established on the principal streets down town. The Custom House was guarded with sufficient force to hold it against a good-sized mob. The telephone office was guarded also by a squad of men. The Judiciary building sheltered a large number of men with a good supply of arms and ammunition, and sentries were about the grounds and everything was in readiness for an outbreak.

About 9:30 o'clock E. O. Hall & Son's store was opened, and arms were distributed to citizens, who were sent to the Police Station after being supplied.

BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY.

German Sugar is Made Entirely From This Root.

Speaking of this industry, Consul General Dundas says German sugar is made entirely from beet roots cultivated by farmers having an interest in sugar factories. The average yield of sugar in the beet is from 14 to 15 per cent., and in order to secure a good yield the roots destined for culture are selected solely with regard to the percentage of their yield of sugar. Therefore the excellence of the root in regard to the yield and the production of the seed is a matter of the first importance. The plant most in demand is the little Wansleben. The factories consume 200 tons to 1000 tons of beet root daily, according to size or working capabilities. The process is as follows: The roots cut into strips are edulcorated with warm water, and the juice thus obtained is clarified by means of lime. The residue left is then subjected to a process by which all moisture is extracted by means of presses and utilized as provender, which has been found very serviceable. A second and third purification with carbonic and sulphurous acids follow; and the syrup and crystallization operations by evaporation and boiling give the final production of the manufactured article, which is separated by centrifugal machinery from the syrup. The deposit left from this process is the molasses which is so much used in the manufacture of spirit. The number of factories in Germany in 1891 was 406, equipped with 4717 steam engines of 63,691 horse-power, using up 10,623,319 tons of beets, and yielding 24,273,784 cwt. of sugar and 4,815,922 cwt. of molasses.—Scientific American.

FOR INVESTMENT.

It is proposed to place the Ostrich Farm of the late Dr. Trousseau on the market in January or February next. This farm is thoroughly equipped and now has thirty-four healthy birds on same, including the famous male ostrich Jumbo and Jno. L. Sullivan.

We believe that it can be demonstrated that this enterprise, new to these islands, but of long standing in Africa, New Zealand and California, can be now carried on at a profit as the experimental stage has been safely passed.

Mr. A. P. Jackson, the genial manager can always be found in attendance at the grounds.

We have on hand a large number of prime feathers in assorted colors from the last plucking which are easily worth $50 per pound and upwards according to quality. The next plucking takes place in January next. Prospective buyers, information concerning the feather market and all necessary data will be furnished.

All reliable persons desirous of visiting the grounds can do so by first obtaining permits from the undersigned.
